

MY JOURNEY IN OUR EMPOWERMENT TECHNOLOGIES CLASS

I have learned so much this year and especially this quarter in Empowerment Technology class. The last semester began with step by step learning tools. Our sensei taught us the etiquettes of using computer and its other usage. It was very difficult and challenging experience that I've encountered. Now that the semester is over I learned a lot of great and educational ideas that helped me to acquire useful skills and ideas when it comes to IT and computer activities. It made me realize that learning how to apply the etiquettes of a computer is very important in order for us to be able to make our projects easier like PowerPoints, blogs, creating sites and other activities that are related to ICT.

My thoughts about this overall project is that I have gratefully accomplished all the tasks that our teacher gave us. It is somehow both positive and negative, because when it comes to time management, I felt perplexed for myself. I tend to procrastinate all the time that's why I must control it in order to manage my time properly. First it is positive, since I am really trying my best to learn the components of media and computer related stuff. As a student we must learn these things. Some things that I have learned throughout this overall project is be patient, never give up easily, and persevere. I have also learned to encourage my friends and group mates and help them when they need my help. For the negative side of this project the early deadline really stresses me out. It makes me feel down because I tend to procrastinate.

Now I avoid these things so that I can be stress free for all the future activities. We should never really pressure ourselves too much just because of this. We just wanted to learn and to feel the excitement especially for us teens, to show our understanding about media and to become independent so that we can be aware of the happenings in our world today. I have discovered different blog sites that are very useful. I also found out that I used to procrastinate but I realized that it is not helping me. I stopped regarding my group mates, we communicate well and avoid procrastination in order for us to submit a great work. We learned how to be hardworking and helped one another during the tasks. My group mates and I learned to respect each other and be considerate.

All of us are working on how to become responsible students. It doesn't matter if we made mistakes because everyone makes mistakes. We had teamwork and even helped other groups too and showed kindness. The most challenging part that I have encountered in this subject is definitely in computer technology because I have a difficulty in saving files. Regardless, I am doing my best to incorporate with these challenges. Some powerful learnings is that I tend to use computers in my projects. I learned that this subject is very important especially to us students because computer is really a necessity.

The most important thing that I've learned is how to be hardworking, patient, kind and to never give up easily.

I was very appreciative of my friends who were also motivating me and told me not to give up. In facing my ultimate problem I realized that I must strive harder and boost up my effort in doing such tasks. I find these problems very difficult because I have many responsibilities as a student then this problem summed up. Despite of all these problems I just prayed that I can do and finish everything. I said to myself that I must do everything that I can.

Life is hard. This is a very personal problem that is going to have a very personal answer. Happiness doesn't have to be something difficult to achieve. You will be happy if you take care of yourself physically, spiritually, emotionally, and mentally. Despite of all these challenges we must still take care of ourselves. We all have two lives. The second one starts when we realize we only have one. My group mates and I communicate very well in which our group members shared their thoughts, ideas, and feelings. This is a must in every group, you want to achieve your goal and succeed in doing your work.
